

A first for the 'first state'

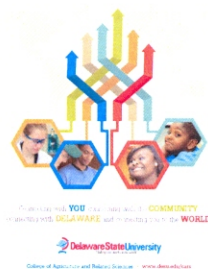

DSU holds the distinction of being the first university in Delaware and the only HBCU to host an arboretum accredited by the Morton Register. An arboretum is a collection of living trees and shrubs. For a map of our arboretum, click the image:

Related news release from Morton Arboretum

CARS publication showcases impact of extension, research programs

The CARS Connections magazine is now available; it showcases work of researchers and extension professionals who reach and teach citizens throughout Delaware. The electronic copy is available here:

ARCHIVE

Troy Darden
Information Coordinator

Shanina Harris
Secretary

Lee Hawkins
Academic Advisor

Michelle Hayes
Invoice Audit Clerk III

Lisa Hopkins
Administrative Assistant

Alex Meredith
College Recruiter

Pablo Mojica
IT Coordinator

Ayeda Silent
Financial & Budget Analyst

Ahira Y. Smith
Director of Academic Advisement

Mission

The mission of the College of Agriculture and Related Sciences is to celebrate the uniqueness of the 1890 land-grant tripartite design by educating students through the pursuit of scholarly excellence; by conducting basic and applied research; and through teaching and extension to improve the lives of people in the state, nation and world. This mission is supported by:

- Innovative basic and applied research that leads to the discovery of new and beneficial knowledge that is consistent with societal needs.
- A quality educational experience that provides professional opportunities for future leaders in agriculture and related sciences.
- Quality outreach education that is designed to address specific needs of a diverse audience including under-represented groups.

Want more information on our activities? Check us out on:

